

US WOMEN'S HISTORY, 1865-PRESENT

GNDR_ST 321 / HISTORY 303-2

This course explores the history of women in the United States from 1865 to the present. Adopting an intersectional approach, we will examine women's changing roles as wage earners, mothers, and activists. We will also explore how prevailing ideas about race, gender, work, and the family shaped women's lives, in both the public and private arenas.

Kate Masur

TTh 11am-12:20pm
Locy Hall 111